Celebrating National Day: A Cherished Yearly Tradition

In 1966, Singapore celebrated our National Day for the first time to mark our independence. It was a time when our future seemed uncertain, but we forged forward together.

Since then, Singaporeans come together every year on 9 August to celebrate our achievements and look back with pride at the nation's growth from year to year.

National Day is a reflection of us moving from strength to strength

Through this year's National Day Parade (NDP) theme, "Stronger Together, Majulah!", we showcase our collective spirit and how we have moved from strength to strength from year to year.

The past two years have been challenging for Singaporeans, but together as a people, we have weathered through with fortitude and determination.

Our collective strength and resilience have stood us in good stead and gives us the confidence for an even brighter future.

And a show of our nation's will and ability to defend ourselves

The showcase of the SAF's and Home Team's capabilities in this year's Total Defence Display since 2017, is a strong demonstration of our ability to defend ourselves and keep Singapore safe and secure.

This year being part of NS55, we also pay tribute to past and present generations of national servicemen for their contributions and hope to inspire future generations of Singaporean males when their time comes to serve.

Together, we celebrate and affirm our unity, commitment and nationhood

NDP 2022, set to be our first full-scale celebration after two years, is also a rallying call for the nation to come together, to give Singaporeans the confidence to strive onwards for the future.

What do you think?

What does being a Singaporean mean to you?

Everyone of us has a part to play to bring Singapore into a brighter future

Since our independence, Singapore has weathered crisis after crisis, and emerged stronger.

1969
Race Riots

1985
Economic Recession

1997
Asian Financial Crisis

2003
SARS Outbreak

2020 to Present
COVID-19 Pandemic

Against the backdrop of a troubled and uncertain world, Singapore is in a strong position to keep Singapore safe, find new opportunities, create new jobs, improve lives, and strengthen our social compact.

Everyone of us has a part to play to bring Singapore into a brighter future

Over 13,000 Singaporeans volunteered through the SGUnited portal during the pandemic. MINDEF and SAF personnel have also answered the call of duty and joined in the national effort against COVID-19.

Volunteers helped to sort and pack food at Food from the Heart.

Cook To Connect was organised by NPOs ItsRainingRaincoats and The Whitehatters to bridge the cultural gap between Singaporeans and migrant workers through cooking*

Volunteers with Project Smile Masks helped sew masks with a clear portion where the mouth is so that the deaf can lip read.

NSmen from the SAF contributed to the nation's home vaccination teams to administer booster shots to immobile residents who are immunocompromised.*

SAF personnel served as recovery buddies for the COVID-19 home recovery programme, and supported contact tracing.*

Everyone of us has a part to play to bring Singapore into a brighter future

*The Good we do Today,
Makes us Stronger for Tomorrow*
